Ability to Benefit Certification Form

One of the requirements for eligibility for federal financial aid is that all applicants must show the ability to benefit from a college education. Students who have earned a high school diploma, a GED, or a State Certificate of Proficiency are automatically determined to have the ability to benefit.

You can also show ability to benefit by earning a passing grade on an ability to benefit test or by satisfactorily completing six credit hours of coursework that are applicable toward a degree or certificate at De Anza. Once you have successfully met one of these requirements, we can resume processing your federal financial aid application.
